DEDICATION

This work is humbly and with all sense of true love and appreciation dedicated to the everlasting cherished memory of Rijalullah (Men of God); Mal Yamusa, Mal Musa, Mal Abdulkarim and Shahid Mal Abdussalam, who collectively with their descendants made Zazzau what it was and now in terms of territorial expansion, socio-political, economic and above all educational development. May Allah in His infinite mercy continue to reward them abundantly and guide to the true path all their descendants until the Day of Judgment, amin

FORWARD

This histo-biographical work titled: Biographical Entries of Sarkin Zazzau Yamusa Descendants; From Sarkin Zazzau Kwasau to Date by our son Professor Umar Ibrahim whom we call Malamai is certainly an important reading not only to the families and descendants of Malam Muhammadu Lawal Kwasau whose history is being brought out. It is also for those who are descend from other families within the larger house of Berebari as led by Malam Yamusa bn Al-Haji and Mallawa, Kastinawa and sullubawa that successfully led the Jihad in Zazzau in the 19th Century. The book is also a good reading for the rest of Zage Zagi whose ancestors made immense contribution to the development of Zazzau as an important part of Nigeria today.

The history of Birnin Zaria and Zazzau has in the past suffered from a lot of distortions, which only encouraged conflict and misunderstanding among families and groups living especially in Birnin Zaria. But all gratitude is to the Almighty Allah who blessed the family of Malam Muhammadu Lawal Kwasau and the people of Zaria- Birnin Ilimi with young scholars like Professor Umar Ibrahim. He has no doubt gone extra mile in collecting information on the life history of some important people that seem to be almost forgotten just because we as a society don't give much attention to records keeping. As a student then scholar and now a nationally recognized Fellow in the business of collecting, organizing and utilizing records (Library & Information Science), Professor Umar has challenged those historians to rise and write the history of their communities instead of allowing it in the hands of people who do not have admiration for culture and life style of our people.

Reading through the book, the book is divided into ten sections. The first section which is an introduction provides an overview of the history, growth and development of Zazzau emirate. Sections two runs a brief history of Sarkin Zazzau Muhammadu Lawal (Kwasau) with a comprehensive presentation of his family tree. It is from this section that the book concentrated and provided entries for all his descendants. Section three also captured a brief history of Sarkin Zazzau Ibrahim. Then sections four to ten provides biographical entries for each of the eight children Kwasau left behind on his death in 1907; six males and two females.

The general outlook and style of presentation of the book is highly commendable. However, more things could be initiated to improve on what has been done so far, specifically in the history of some of the family members not adequately covered. Nonetheless, the problem can be easily understood, especially that research consumes a lot of time and fund, and worst the lack of cooperation from respondents. All the same it is expected that those yet to be covered and those alive and their records could not be submitted should endeavor to produce them so that it can be included in the next expected revision exercise. This will go a long way in

PREFACE

This collective Biography is a part of an intended comprehensive coverage of the lives, times and contributions of Sarkin Zazzau Yamusa and his descendents to the development of Zazzau Emirate in particular and Nigeria in general. It is worth acknowledging the contribution of Professor M. G Smith on the subject matters. Although his book, "Government in Zazzau" only dealt with the genealogy of the flag bearers and their descendants that held traditional titles and political posts as well as discussion on politics and administration of the time, the book no doubt provided frame work to many theses, dissertations and other writings on the history and development of Zazzau emirate including this biography.

Many people have thought of and made effort to write the history of Barebari or Fulata-Borno dynasty in Zaria or Zazzau emirate, unfortunately none of these efforts has seen the light of the day. Writing about Sarkin Zazzau Yamusa and his descendants is indeed an enormous task that requires a lot of skills, time and resources. Therefore, to kick-start, this author started writing from the middle to the top, instead of from the top to the bottom. In view of this and in order to determine the scope of these biographical entries, the generation of the first Fulata-Borno dynasty Emir in Zazzau, Sarkin Zazzau Yamusa was considered the first generation and symbolically referred to as the 1st generation. Since there are three generations between Sarki Yamusa and Sarki Kwasau, the generation of Kwasau was considered the 5th generation. Although the 7th generation is the focus of these biographical entries, the entries also included members of the 6th generation. However, the biography did not include members for whom comprehensive information could not be sought, and those who failed, after repeated visits and appeals, to return the administered questionnaire. Nevertheless, in order to be more inclusive, the names of most members were listed to be filled later and provide foundation for further works

Like profile or résumé, a biography presents a subject's life story, highlighting various aspects of his or her life, such as education, experience, and may include an analysis of a subject's personality. Biography is believed to provide insight into original information from which history can be reconstructed. It also provide a lesson in leadership and is remarkable for giving insights into the personality and character of its subject, as well as instilling good values, integrity and good judgment, especially in youth. No wonder Harry S. Truman, the president of the United State said that biographies were his favourite reading subject and described them as shortest cut to history

This biography as a collective one contains detailed bio-data of more than one hundred personalities, descendants of Sarkin Zazzau Yamusa. The biography has indeed illustrated a verse of the Holy Qur'an where Allah (SWT) says "If any one slew a person.....it would be as if he slew the whole people. And if any one saved a life, it would be as if he saved the life of the whole people" (5:35). If Yamusa had not lived he wouldn't have produced this nation of descendants. The story of Sarkin Zazzau Yamusa and his descendants is truly "a tree that made a forest in Zaria".

The biography is presented in ten sections with the first section providing an overview of the history, growth and development of Zazzau emirate. Attempt was made to capture brief history of Sarkin Zazzau Muhammadu Lawal (Kwasau) and Sarkin Zazzau Ibrahim in sections two & three. Sections four to ten, each provides biographical entries of sons and daughters of Sarkin Zazzau Muhammadu Lawal descendants. Although no particular order was followed in the presentation of the biographical entries, seniority was however observed where possible, especially with regards to listing of sons and daughters of 8th generation.

The biography is written in pursuit of the holy prophet Muhammad (SAW) admonition that people should try to know their geology, and of what John Ruskin (1819 – 1900), an English art critic says, "great nations write their autobiographies in three manuscripts—the book of their deeds, the book of their words and the book of their arts". It is therefore my candid hope that the biography will not only enable present as well as future descendants of Sarkin Zazzu Yamusa trace their geology but also establish their relationship with each other. The biography also established and documented houses or lineage that are almost either forgotten or about going into extinction

This work conceived and started a decade ago couldn't have been realized without the support of many people, too numerous to mention all. However, it is essential to acknowledge the moral support and encouragement received from Late Baba Aminu Abdullahi (Daudawa) who showed me the system of recording he employed to adequately footnote his family. Baba Alhaji, Shehu Usman Abdullahi (Adada) also deserves commendation for his ever readiness to share with me his story and those of others he could still remember. Late Baba Ja'afaru Zubairu also deserve mention for showing a lot of interest to this project, how I wish he lived to see the final copy, may Allah have mercy on him

I wish to offer my sincere gratitude to Alh. Inuwa Dikko for willingly sharing with me his project, which resulted in harnessing very important historical documents from National archives and other places; he gave me a 336 page document which I found very useful to this work, any way he is a big brother. Malam Musa Salihu of Arewa House has also helped with very important documents; I therefore thank him a lot. Malam Musa Idriss (Ticic) also deserves special mention for the supply of most of the historical pictures used in this work. I will like to register my appreciation to Mal. Suleiman Shehu not only for the interest shown to the work but for finding time to read the work and gave it professional-historical touch.

My brothers, Abdullahi Ibrahim and Hayatudeed Ibrahim have also contributed immensely to this work and thus remained ever grateful to them. I will like to thank so much Aminu Umar, Ibrahim Umar (Sarki), Abdullahi Umar (Aba) and Yahaya Attah for taking the rigor and pain of distributing and collecting back the questionnaire administered; Abdullahi Lawal Yahaya (Gidan Baba Aiyuka), who started a work of this nature and wanted to team up with me to do this project. I wish to also thank Eng. Aliyu Abdullahi (NAPIMS) for his financial contribution towards this work.

I would have loved that a forward be written for this project by either Late Amb. Lawal Sambo, Walin Zazzau, may Allah have mercy on him or Dallatun Zazzau, Muhammadu Hayatudden. Unfortunately, Wali did not live to see the final copy of the work, while Dallatu is currently indisposed to write. Nevertheless, we always dope our hearts to these worthy descendants of Sarki Yamusa

Finally I am most grateful to my Wives; Shema'u Abdullahi Aliyu for painstakingly translating part of the biography and works of Sarkin Zazzau Muhammadu Lawal Kwasau in Suleiman Ph.D's dissertation from Arabic and Maryam Muhammad Barau for her interest and insistence that the work should see the light of the day. I cannot forget the support given to me by all my children and those too numerous to mention. I pray to Allah (SWT) to reward every one abundantly, amin

SECTION ONE

1.0 INTRODUCTION

Zazzau is a region whose significance in the geo-political constitution of the Nigeria is obvious. The history and development of Zazzau with its capital in Zaria can be viewed from three perspectives; as a kingdom, emirate and province. The history of Zazzau as a Kingdom predates legendary Queen Amina. The kingdom is traditionally said to date from the 11th century, when King Gunguma founded it as one of the original Hausa Bakwai (Seven true Hausa States). However it was during the reign of Queen Amina that Zazzau as the first formidable and powerful Hausa kingdom was established. She made the fame of Zazzau kingdom known far and wide, like, as noted by Abbas (2011) the famous falcon in the birds' kingdom. Through her many wars, Zazzau territorial control was extended over many areas as far as the Benue and Niger rivers' confluence to the south and in some way over Bauchi, Kano and Daura. The vastness of the territorial land area conquered by Queen Amina and the diversified features of the communities has constituted a major source of political and economic power. As the southernmost state of the seven, it had the function of serving as slave center for all Hausa Bakwai, especially for the northern markets of Kano and Katsina. Camel caravans from the Sahara travelled south to Zazzau to exchange salt for slaves, cloth, leather, and grain.

Islām was introduced in Zaria about 1456, and with the conquest of Zazzau in 1512 by Muḥammad I Askia, a warrior leader of the Songhai Empire, Zazzau became governed by Muslim Hausa rulers. During this period, Zazzau witnessed remarkable changes, especially in the conduct of administration, business transactions, trading and more significantly in education. However, the emirate system of Zazzau was not established until after the capture of the area in 1805 by the Fulani Muslim leaders of Zaria who pledged allegiance to Usman dan Fodio, who was waging jihād ("holy war") in northern Nigeria. This resulted in a Fulani becoming ruler of Zaria in 1808 and creating Zazzau emirate in 1835, retaining some of its old vassal states (including Keffi, Nasarawa, Jema'a, and Lapai to the south). Thus, as pointed out in the Gazetteers (1972) Zazzau Emirate was territorially the largest of the Fulani Emirates and as collaborated by Shehu (2012) by 1835, when the third Amir of Zazzau, Malam Yamusa died, the spheres of Kasar Zazzau had extended far enough to make it one of the powerful emirates upon which Sokoto relied for various contributions.

Zaria was constituted as a province in 1902 after the overthrow of the government of Zazzau by British Colonial Forces led by Frederick Lugard. The province, as was initially constituted, covered an area of more than 20,000 square miles; with rivers Gurara and Gulbin being the Southern and Western boundaries respectively. In the Eastern corner however, Gadas was one of the most famous towns of the province. These covered vast and diversified areas and peoples running as far as Katsina in the north, Wushishi and Zungeru in the West and as far South as Kwatto, Keffi, Nasarawa, Doma and the Benue River etc. Under the 1926 provincial reorganization, Zaria province was composed of the Emirates of Zazzau and Katsina as well as the 'independent' districts (or subordinate Native Authority) of Birnin Gwari. In a memo dated 19th May, 1949, Mr. M. G. Smith described the province of Zaria as an open orchard bush country of Northern Nigeria.

As pointed out by many scholars, the history of Zazzau is unique and eventful than all the surrounding political entities. Even during colonial era, Zaria was given a special consideration and attention by the imperial government. All these therefore transformed the town remarkably far more than any other town (even Zungeru, Lokoja or Kaduna). The incessant visits by the colonial Government since 1910 to Zaria and due to the policies and actions taken, Zaria continued to be transformed to township through the increasing enlargement of the town. These in addition led to the pouring in of all kinds of social and economic classes of people due to the establishment of social and physical infrastructure, boosting of trade, establishment of foreign trading firms. Furthermore, all sizes of the Supreme Court were held in Zaria. Again, all Governors and other prominent colonial officers and visitors from other provinces or from the imperial country were received and entertained in Zaria. The regard and importance accorded to Zaria by the Colonial masters can be seen in the memo of Governor Hesketh H. Bell to the colonial office in London recommending Zaria to be the capital of Northern Nigeria until Governor – General Frederick Lugard changed and put Kaduna as the headquarters.

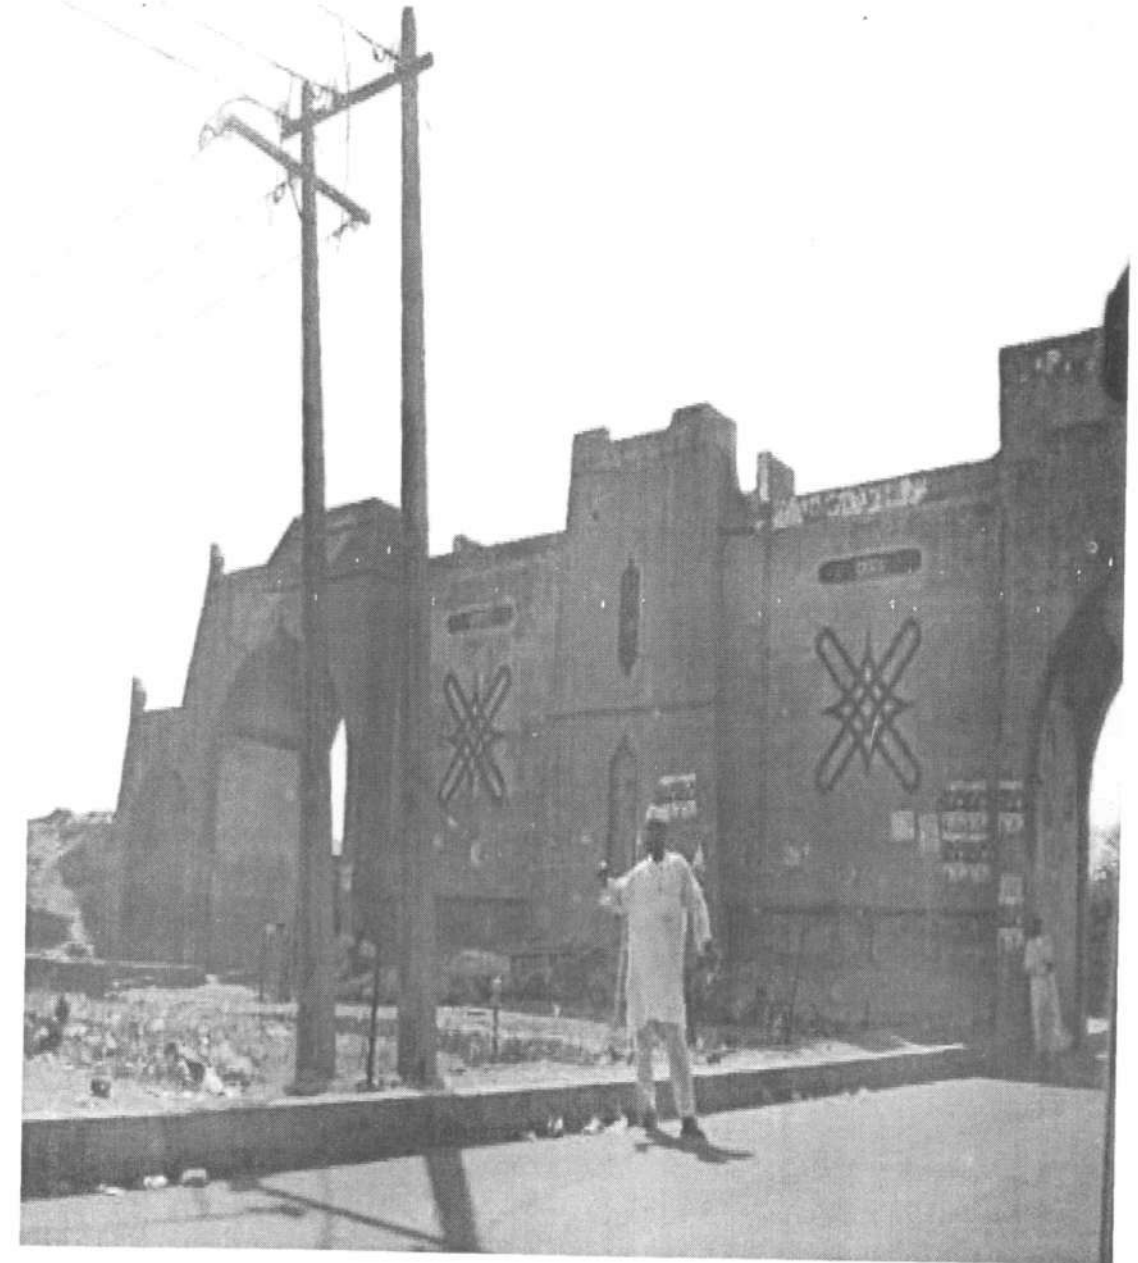

Even though Zaria was never made the capital of Northern Nigeria, and much later not even the capital of North Central and Kaduna State, Zazzau continued to be one of Nigeria's largest traditional emirates and Zaria town one of the nation's leading towns. Zazzau excel in virtually all the areas of human endeavor. A leading producer of cash and domestic agricultural products such as tobacco, peanuts (groundnuts), Shea nuts, Soybeans, Ginger, Sugarcane (which is processed locally into brown sugar), and Sorghum, Millet and Cowpeas are the staple foods; cattle, chickens, goats, guinea fowl, and sheep are raised for meat, the emirate is also a base to many industries. In terms of education, Zaria became famous as a center for the study of Arabic grammar and other Islamic sciences and has been in the forefront of modern education and literacy. It is home to many western educational institutions of global repute. From Kaduna College to Barewa College, the school is known for the large number of elites from the region that passed through the school's academic buildings and counts among its alumni, five of whom were at one time Nigerian head of state or president. Ahmadu Bello University, the largest university in Nigeria and the second largest on the African continent is also located in Zaria. The town is also the home-base for the Nigerian College of Aviation Technology, National Research Institute for Chemical Technology, Nigerian Military School, etc. Zaria was also the headquarters of the Northern Region Literacy Agency, which under the direction of Neil Skinner brought out many books in Hausa at the Gaskiya Cooperation, where the Hausa newspaper Gaskiya ta fi Kwabo was also published

As poetically mentioned by William Cowper (1731- 1800), a British poet that "God made the Country and Man made the town", Zazzau emirate was undeniably built and sustained by the trio of Malams Musa, Yamusa, Abdulkarim and Abdussalam and their descendants. Interestingly, out of 19 emirs that ruled Zazzau emirate from Sheikh Usman Dan fodio's jihad up to today, the Barebari dynasty has produced 10 emirs and many traditional title holders. It is indeed true that their collective actions created a legacy that inspires us and others to, in the words of John Quincy Adams, "dream more, learn more, do more and become more".

5.0 SARKIN ZAZZAU MUHAMMADU LAWAL (KWASAU)

Sarkin Zazzau Muhammadu Lawal, popularly called Kwasau was born in 1855 at Birnin Yero, where he began his early life before his parent return to Zaria. His mother was Aminatu and his father was Sarkin Zazzau Usman Yaro, the son of Sarkin Zazzau Abdullahi, the son of Sarkin Zazzau Hammada, who was the son of the first Fulata-Borno Amir of Zazzau Yamusa. Sarkin Zazzau Yamusa was the son of Alhaji Ibrahim, the son of Mal. Umar, the son of Mal. Usman the son of Mal. Muhammadu Yaro. Mal. Yaro was the son of Mal. Muhammadu Dibbu the son of Ibn Umar.

Kwasau, a nickname that still remains obscured, with many people urging to know the real meaning, have many explanations. Because of the suffering inflicted on the British invaders, the Colonial protagonists portrayed Kwasau as treacherous and cruel ruler to the extent of M. G. Smith describing him as Mal. Kogin Jinni. It is this propaganda against the personality of Kwasau as revealed by Shehu (20011) that beclouded his intellectual and administrative contribution to the development of Zazzau emirate. However, the explanation that seems to carry much weight is the one provided in the work of Suleiman (2009). According to him Kwasau is derived from the word Kwashewa which literary means to amass or accumulate. It further explained that Muhammadu Lawal was highly intelligent with very sharp brain and memory right from childhood- When it came to teaming. Kwasau was always quick to grasp and retain whatever he learnt. It is this power of amassing and retention of knowledge of Muhammadu Lawal that led to nicknaming him Kwasau. This explanation is collaborated by Shehu (2011) who interpreted it to indicate his intellectual prowess and capacity and argued further that his later life has proven this in the number and quality of books he authored, including his excellent rendition of poems. The fact that Kwasau himself referred to this nickname in his masterpiece poem Nuzhatul Al-asir fih innalati al-yasir when he said Yussama ahluhu bi Kwasau wa'zalikal lakabi laisa bi la'ab shows that the nickname connotes good and not bad as portrayed by the British invaders, otherwise he would have associated the nickname to himself.

Kwasau's childhood and adolescence was characterized with pursuit of knowledge in the Islamic sciences and Arabic philology, and was deeply knowledgeable in all of these areas. Kwasau studied under the well-known shuyuk of his time; notable among them were Sheikh Iyal-Salanke, at Unguwar Kakaki and Sheikh Ishak. Kwasau however continued to seek for knowledge even when it was certain that he attained the position of Malam himself; as he was teaching others, Kwasau was also pursuing higher knowledge. In addition to teaching, Kwasau was also made Ajkali (Qadi)

Kwasau continuing doing these two jobs that are only reserved for learned people until 1890 when he was made Madakin Zazzau, a title only conferred to senior sons of emirs. In 1897 Kwasau became the Emir of Zazzau, at the age of 42 years, succeeding his father Mal. Usman Yaro. Kwasau competed with three other title holders; Mal Lawal Sambo from Kastinawa ruling dynasty, Mal Muhammadu from Mallawa ruling dynasty and Galadima Salmanu. Although Kwasau ruled for only five years, he was able within this short period to bring development in all human endeavour in the emirate. He, according to Shehu (2012) restored the lost glory and prestige of the emirate, which was heavily devastated by the constant raids of Ningawa from the North East and Maradawa from the North West. The educational sector no doubt received the highest attention, which led to welcoming, accommodating and supporting both local and foreign Malams and their students. Similarly, he tried to re-strategize the ways knowledge was being imparted, especially in the areas of commentaries of the Holy Qur'an and Arabic language, where he also specialized.

Despite being one of the most politically complex emirates to administer, using different strategies, Kwasau was able to provide good and effective governance. The restructuring of the emirate security network using "Yan Bindiga", which he created when he was Madaki helped in no small measure to strengthen the army. The re-organization of the emirate administrative system and re-introduction of previous titles, such as Dallatu, Iya, Makama Karami and Turaki Karami and the creation of new ones also went a long way in making important landmarks in the history of Zazzau Sarkin Zazzau Kwasau was indeed a great leader of many folds, whose life was very eventful and momentous. This is why he is variously referred to as renowned and devout scholar, famous and astute administrator, accommodative and patient; his compound was always full of people, warmly liberal, highly compassionate, cheerful, intelligent and master of quiet diplomacy. He was also known for his brevity, which earned him the famous "Gwamachi" (The Destroyer) Warrior. The life of Kwasau was certainly eventful and momentous, as pointed out by Shehu (2012), the events surrounding his personality are of historical significance to the Zazzau emirate and will therefore shade more light on some important landmarks and will provide solid facts for the reconstruction of the history of Zazzau particularly at the closing of the 20th Century.

Many reasons were advanced for the dethronement and deportation of Kwasau, however, the lack of cooperation and trouble caused to the British invaders; a fact recorded in the pages of history that the British invaders really suffered in his hands, and the murder of Captain Maloney in Keffi, which was alleged to be conducted under his instruction were the most significance reasons. He spearheaded the emirate Ulema in the anti-crusade of the British by preaching and reminding the Muslim ummah of what Allah (SWT) said in the Holy Qur'an about Yahudu and Nasara. However, when it became evident as a result of the passive reaction of the people and the emirate to the conquest, and the advancement of British invaders with large army headed by General Kambell towards Zaria, Kwasau fled and remained at large causing much trouble for more than a year before he was brilliantly captured by a small party of mounted infantry. According to some sources, Kwasau left Zaria through Kofar Kuyanbana. His children, particularly Danmadami Ibrahim and Galadima Hayatu, mounted on their horse were following him until he reached the gate of Kofar Kuyanbana and instructed them to return. After his capture, Kwasau was first exiled to Wushishi for six months with the intention of restoring him after his remorse and apology. When he didn't succumb, he was then transferred to Yola and finally to Lokoja where he met Emir of Kano Aliyu Babba also on exile. He spent the rest of his life, died and buried at lokoja

Zazzau emirate is reputed to have been one of the most prolific in the Sokoto Caliphate, perhaps second to Sokoto itself. The emirate scholars and most of its leadership, including Kwasau contributed to the large body of literature, which are of immense value and significant to the intellectual heritage of the Caliphate. Although Kwasau was involved in intellectual pursuit before his becoming the Madaki and Emir and continued thereafter attaining the two positions, there is no any clear indication that Kwasau authored any book before his deposition as Emir. On the other hand, available records show that it is his deposition to Lokoja that provided him with ample opportunity not only to rekindle his intellectual quest but to start writing books and composing poems. Evidence indicated that Kwasau authored many books and poems in Arabic during his exile in Lokoja. The subject matters of the books and poems ranged from history to mysticism and theology, including commentary of the Holy Qur'an. Prominent among the books and poems authored by Kwasau according to Shehu (2011) include: Hibbat Allah Al-Rafiq fi bayan qissat Yusuf Al-Siddiq, as the title suggests, it highlighted the connotation of the story and life of Prophet Yusuf (AS) as told in the Holy Qur'an. There was also Ma-unat al-tullab fi Ma-rifat ma-fihi nasikh wa-man sukh, a simple work written to assist students understand the sciences of the Holy Qur'an, especially on the science of abrogation and the abrogated verses of the Holy Qur'an. Another work authored by him in the area of Tafsir, commentary of the holy Qur'an was Qissat Nabiyyillah Musa and Qissat ashab al-kahf. It is interesting to note that Qissat Nabiyyillah Musa was studied and evaluated by Lawal Sule Abdullahi and submitted in partial fulfillment for the award of Ph.D in the department of Arabic, Ahmadu Bello University, Zaria. Other books authored by Kwasau included Ighathat al-lahfan bi-naylihi 'awatif al-luftan fi bayan award Ahmad al- Tijjani, Iraqat al-ishaqa al-qasid (li-qasid?) al-ifafa and Tashfi al-musafir fi bayan qasr al-muqasir

However, of most significance among his writings is a poem composed in Arabic and titled Nuzhatul Al-asir fih innalati al-yasir (The Excursions of an Exiled Emir); it looks like this work was his masterpiece. Composed in 921 verses and divided into four chapters, the poem, using classic Arabic, firstly provided an insight and exposed the conspiracy of his deposition by the British. The second part of the poem had to do with Kwasau's rendition of how he took his deposition and exile. Instead of considering his removal as a source of despair, misery, sorrow and grief, Kwasau took it in solace and saw it as an excursion from the burden of statecraft. Because of the importance of this work, this author made effort to get original copy of the work from Arewa House, which is a 54 page document. Few pages have been reproduced and attached to this book as appendix.

SECTION THREE

6.0 SARKIN ZAZZAU IBRAHIM

Sarkin Zazzau Ibrahim was born in 1886 at Birnin Yero. His father was Sarkin Zazzau Muhammadu Lawal Kwasau, the son of Sarkin Zazzau Usman Yaro, the son of Sarkin Zazzau Abdullahi, the son of Sarkin Zazzau Hammada, who was the son of the first Fulata-Borno Amir of Zazzau Yamusa. Although not much is known about Sarkin Zazzau Ibrahim's childhood and adolescence, but as characterized his time, he engaged himself in the pursuit of knowledge. In this line, Malam Ibrahim was well educated in the Islamic Sciences, partly from his father and majorly from the renowned Shueik of his time

The only known office held by Malam Ibrahim before ascending to the throne was Danmadamin Zazzau, District Head of Zangon Aya, where he stayed until October 1924 when he became the emir, succeeding his brother Sarkin Zazzau Dalhatu. As District Head of Zangon Aya, Malam Ibrahim demonstrated administrative acumen, a skill he acquired from both his father and brother that he was much closed to. It is these leadership qualities exhibited by Malam Ibrahim and his acceptability by his people that made him to be considered first among many contenders when Sarkin Zazzau Dalhatu died Zazzau emirate saw tremendous growth and development in every human endeavour during the reign of Sarkin Zazzau Ibrahim. Not only did he tried and consolidated the gains of his predecessors in the area of administration, but as his period saw the firm grip of the emirate by the British and their style of administration, the emir had to skillfully blend local ways of administration with the now Western ways. Although at the earlier years of his emirship, Sarkin Zazzau Ibrahim was over-shadowed by many circumstances and personalities, especially those that contested with him, latterly Sarkin Zazzau Ibrahim was quickly able to developed rapidly both in respect of his creativity and initiative. His self-confidence, grasp of affairs of the emirate and stylistic leadership provided rapid development to the emirate which made him to win an award of the King's Medal for African Chiefs in October, 1934, perhaps the first emir to win such award.

Another mark of Sarkin Zazzau Ibrahim's administration was his exposure to other systems of administration and development in other parts of Nigeria. It is interesting to note that Sarkin Zazzau Ibrahim undertook a tour from Zaria - Lagos - Port Harcourt - Enugu - Zaria on the 9th - 18th October, 1934. As recorded in the Zaria Chronicle, his entourage consisted of Waziri, Makama Iya, Sarkin Ruwa, Magatakarda and two servants. The Zaria D.O Mr. B.E. Sharwood Smith accompanied the team as far as Lagos only. In Lagos the Emir was conducted to various places of interest such as Marine Department dredgers, King's College and the Higher College Yaba, the Daily Times Office and Press and the Railway workshops. From Lagos the emir and his entourage travelled to Port Harcourt by steam ship, an overnight trip, by M.V. ACCRA. A special "royal" menu was given to the Chief Steward on board the ship.

In Enugu the Emir visited the Railway workshops and Power Station, the Colliery, the Convict Prison and the Industrial School for Juvenile Offenders along with the barracks of the 6th Battalion, Nigeria Regiment. Still in Enugu the issue of accommodation is said to present a slight difficulty, but then the Sarkin Hausa of Enugu placed his house at the Emir's disposal. There is no doubt to the fact that these visitations widen the horizon of the emir and served as impetus to future development of Zazzau emirate. Available records show that many modern institutions, including educational were started during the reign of Sarkin Zazzau Ibrahim.

Sarkin Zazzau Ibrahim died on the 31st of January, 1937, after a rule of twelve years and four months. He died on tour in Kachia, a town in Southern Zaria and this is why anybody named Ibrahim after his death is nicknamed Mai Kachia. The death of Sarkin Zazzau Ibrahim was indeed very painful and felt by every member of the emirate in respective of tribe. The reason for this may not be unconnected with the fact that Sarkin Zazzau Ibrahim was very much loved by his people and also the fact that he died in active service to his people. Despite the fact that he was seriously ill; the illness which had apparently commenced on 14th January at Zaria, the emir still embarked on the tour and the Emir should never have set out on tour still less have moved forward from Kaduna where the symptoms became more acute. He did so, it would seem, according to Sharwood, in his anxiety not to depart from his programme of work the emir set all considerations of health aside to a degree that one must admire as much as one regrets his impudence. The attendant circumstances that led to his death and whatever transpired were set forth in the report of Mr. B. E. Sharwood, the District officer. According to him, "the emir died, it would seem, of toxemia as the heart was satisfactory when tested earlier. All that it was possible to do for him locally had been done, the medical officer visited twice daily and if and when required. The Emir showed gratitude for such help as had been afforded and revealed no resentment when things took their unfavorable turn". Additionally and more importantly, Sarkin Zazzu Ibrahim died as indicated by Sharwood "without pain and in comparative tranquility."

Many historians and scholars that wrote on Zazzau emirate have allude to the fact as evidently recorded in the books of history that Sarkin Zazzau Ibrahim's administration was one of the best. A marked feature of his rule was his tolerance of the beliefs and customs of his non-Moslem subjects and his encouragements of any scheme which aimed at furthering their economic progress and political evolution on indigenous lines within the orbit of the Emirate. It is largely due to his personal influence that the anti-sleeping sickness campaign which has taken place in Zaria during the past four years has attained the success that it has. His relations with the administrations have been of the best and, though amenable at all times to advice, he has never showed any reluctance to voice his own opinions whatever their colour.

Sarkin Zazzau Ibrahim left behind 14 Children: 1. Abdullahi, 2. Bara'u, 3. Zubairu, 4. Umaru, 5. Yahaya, 6. Usman, 7 Lawal, 8. Garba, 9. Rufa'I, 10. Iya, 11. Salamatu, 12. Kuttu, 13. Mairo, 14. Zainab as respective shown in the diagram below
